Believed to have been built in 1864, this quaint cottage was one of the first built in Alverstone and was once a dairy cottage for the nearby dairy farm. Alverstone village is steeped in history, with a focus on the railway, which now serves as a peaceful and scenic cycle path connecting various towns and villages across the island. The cottage has been lovingly cared for and maintained by the owners of 4 years but still offers potential for the new owners to put their own stamp on. Comprising an entrance hall leading to the living room, stairwell and dining room, with the dining room providing access to the kitchen, utility room, bathroom, and conservatory. The first-floor landing accommodates three double bedrooms. Outside, the generous garden is planted with a variety of shrubs and trees, including mature fruit trees and even offers space to grow vegetables.

Nestled within National Landscapes, surrounded by idyllic rural landscapes, the village of Alverstone enjoys a perfect balance of peaceful environment and the conveniences of the Island's principal towns of Shanklin and Sandown which are only a short drive away. Sandown and Shanklin provide extensive amenities with a wide range of shops and supermarkets, eateries, and events. Alverstone is also positioned on the fringes of the quaint village of Newchurch which boasts one of the most highly regarded pubs on the Island, The Pointer Inn, which is known for its mouth-watering locally sourced food and fantastic beer garden offering beautiful views of the surrounding countryside. Quinton enjoys plenty of rural walks and cycling routes nearby including the scenic Red Squirrel cycle path linking to Sandown and Newport, taking you through red squirrel-inhabited woodland, farmland, estuaries and a stretch of the island's magnificent coastline. Southern Vectis routes and the Island Line train service can be found nearby, connecting the whole island and to the mainland.
