You could experience the serenity of countryside living with this stone detached period property in Hartington, Derbyshire. Tucked away in a quiet position, the property presents a blank canvas, requiring complete renovation and reconfiguration. This is a fantastic opportunity to design a space tailored to your personal needs and tastes, all while enjoying the beauty and tranquillity of rural life at your leisure.

Denise White Estate Agent's Comments

Discover a unique opportunity with this three bedroom stone detached period property, set in a spacious plot within the picturesque village of Hartington, Derbyshire. Nestled in a tranquil, tucked-away position, this charming cottage is surrounded by stunning countryside. While the property requires total renovation, it presents the perfect canvas for creating your dream home. Additionally, an extra plot of land located opposite enhances the potential for a detached garage or parking (subject to any planning consents). Embrace the chance to live within the natural beauty of this prime country location.

This property requires complete renovation throughout and offers accommodation spread over two floors. The ground floor features an entrance porch leading into an entrance hall, which provides access to a spacious reception room and stairs to the first floor. The second reception room, leads through to the kitchen and a boot room/utility space. On the first floor, there are three bedrooms and a bathroom. Externally, the property has gardens both at the front and rear, along with an additional plot of land opposite the property, which could be utilised for parking or the construction of a detached garage, subject to planning and building regulations.

The property has been in the same family ownership for many years and was originally part of the Chatsworth Estate.

Location

An important village since the Middle Ages, Hartington was granted a market charter in 1203 by William De Ferres and became a major centre for a large rural population from the many isolated farms in the surrounding area.

A pretty village at the northern end of Dovedale, the village is set in some of the very best walking country.

Hartington's past wealth and importance can be seen in the impressive stone cottages and houses around the village square and many ancient routes and trackways still meet in the village, although it has been years since a market has been held. One of the most impressive buildings in the village is Hartington Hall, now the local YHA. Dating back to 1611, the manor house still retains much of its original character and is one of the most popular youth hostels in the Peak District, with a restaurant open to the public serving locally sourced produce.

The scenery in and around this charming old limestone village is outstanding. The village is centred around the spacious square, with the much photographed duck pond as a focal point. There are some fine old buildings, including the Charles Cotton Hotel, St. Giles Church, the Market Hall and Hartington Hall. There is as a good selection of gift shops, cafes and pubs and there is a small pottery.

The Hartington creamery is unfortunately now closed but the adjacent speciality cheese shop remains and indeed thrives.

This popular village is surrounded by beautiful scenery with a network of footpaths radiating from it. To the south is romantic Beresford Dale, leading to Wovescote Dale and the famous Dovedale or venture north, in the Upper Dove valley on quieter paths to Pilsbury Castle and Crowdecote.

Hartington lies 1.5 miles to the west of the A515, take the B5054 just north of Newhaven or east from Warslow and Hulme End. The road is signposted with a brown sign pointing to the Tissington trail, as you drive down the road you will pass under the bridge that carries the Tissington trail and this was the site of Hartington Station.

Guide Price

An indication of the seller's current minimum acceptable price at auction. The guide price or range of guide prices is given to assist consumers in deciding whether or not to pursue a purchase. It is usual, but not always the case that a provisional reserve range is agreed between the seller and the auctioneer at the start of marketing. As the reserve is not fixed at this stage and can be adjusted by the seller at any time up to the day of the auction in the light of interest shown during the marketing period, a guide price is issued. This guide price can be shown in the form of a minimum and maximum price range within which an acceptable sale price (reserve) would fall, or as a single price figure within 10% of which the minimum acceptable price (reserve) would fall. A guide price is different to a reserve price (see separate definition). Both the guide price and the reserve price can be subject to change up to and including the day of the auction
