THE PROPERTY
Occupying a highly prized position on one of Falmouth's most attractive terraces, this apartment sits directly opposite Kimberley Park, widely regarded as the town's finest green space, alive with mature trees and wildlife. It's an exceptional setting for families and anyone who values immediate access to leafy open surroundings.

A rare advantage is that the property spans the entire ground floor, creating an impressive sense of privacy and scale. The accommodation is currently arranged as two generous double bedrooms plus a separate studio/annexe, ideal as a third bedroom, guest suite, or self-contained home office. For buyers seeking an alternative format, the layout offers clear potential to reconfigure into a larger two-bedroom home or possibly even a three-bedroom arrangement.

Enjoying views over Kimberley Park to the front is a bright kitchen/living room, centred around a bay window and an attractive period fireplace. A flue liner is already in place for the installation of a wood-burning stove. The kitchen is finished with timber block worktops, complementary tiling, and excellent fitted storage.

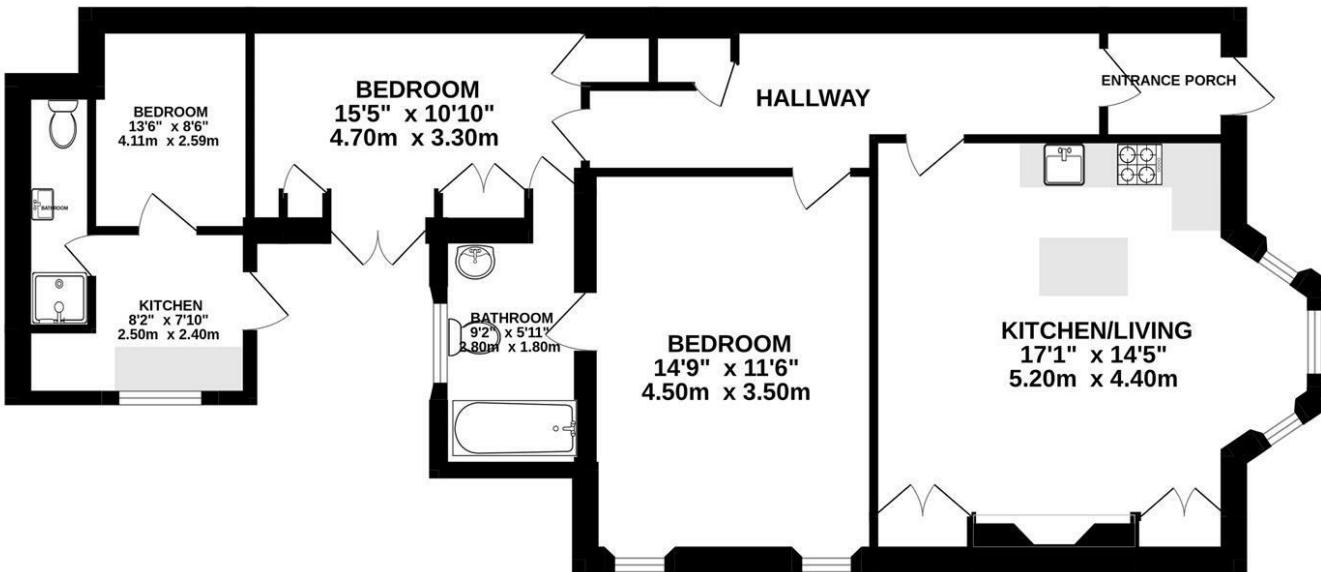

A particularly practical feature is the retention of the original main entrance door and porch, while the upper apartment is accessed solely from the rear, further enhancing the feeling of separation. The two double bedrooms both enjoy direct access to the bathroom via connecting doors in a clever Jack-and-Jill arrangement.

THE EXTERIOR
Unusually for an apartment, the property retains the majority of the original house's garden areas. To the front, a substantial garden faces directly onto Kimberley Park, while side and rear gardens wrap around to a sunny, walled courtyard. Both the main accommodation and the studio/annexe open out to the gardens, making the outdoor space feel like a natural extension of the home.
